Art Unit: 1761

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35USC112, 2nd paragraph as being indefinite. It is not clear what statutory class of invention is being claimed. Each claim begins with the word "to" and then a verb. Without any additional verbiage or structural elements. Thus whether these claims are intended to be method claims or article/apparatus claims with an intended function (e.g, "a container for making...") is unclear. To expedite prosecution, the claims are construed to be method claims.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Easter et al (3,513,886). In regard to claim 1, Easter et al discloses making a pancake batter (and then a pancake pastry – note that pastry connotes a finished product) without having to know the necessary ingredients and their quantity, which is all claim 1 is seen to positively recite. In regard to claim 2, Easter et al discloses storing pancake batter (which is what applicant discloses – the use of the term "pastry" being an error in English usage) in a refrigerator door, which is all that claim 2 is seen to positively recite. Claim 3 discloses pouring a pancake batter (which is what applicant discloses – the use of the term "pastry" being an error in English usage) precisely into a frying pan using two different openings (i.e., the openings #22 by themselves or with #18), which is all claim 3 recites.

It is noted that it is the claims that are examined and a determination made as to whether there is patentability or not. Structure or methodology that an applicant wants to be considered for patentability must not only be disclosed in the originally filed specification, but such structure or method steps must also be claimed in the claims.

The remainder of the references cited on the PTO892 form are cited as pertinent art.
